

Edison Medal for 'Phone Engineering Won by Col. Carty

Honor Awarded U. S. Signal Corps Officer at American Institute

Organized Big Reserve
Telephony Up to 5,000 Miles

Colonel John J. Carty, of the United States Signal Corps, chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was awarded the Edison gold medal last night in recognition of his work in developing telephone engineering. The presentation was made at the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, 33 West Thirty-ninth Street, before over a thousand members of the organization, including Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, and Major General George O. Squire, chief of the Signal Corps of the United States army.

The Edison medal, as described in an address by Dr. A. E. Kennelly, chairman of the Edison Medal Committee, has been presented each year since 1909 to the man in the engineering profession who has made the most important contribution to the progress of telephony. Former medalists include Elihu Thomson, Frank J. Sprague, Charles Westinghouse, William Stanley, Charles F. Brush, Alexander Graham Bell and Nikola Tesla.

Tells of Colonel Carty's Progress

Professor Michael I. Pupin, of Columbia University, chairman of the engineering foundation, associated with Colonel Carty for thirty years, told of the latter's progress in telephony since 1879, when, at the age of eighteen and not a college graduate, he entered the telephone service. Ten years later, said Professor Pupin, Colonel Carty was chief engineer of the New York Telephone system.

Colonel Carty is best known for perfecting the underground telephone system between New York and Washington in 1912 and between Boston and Washington in 1913. In 1915 Colonel Carty succeeded in joining the Atlantic and Pacific coasts conversationally. He invented a method of telephoning without wires, over distances up to 5,000 miles. He organized the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's engineering system.

The presentation of the medal was made by E. W. Rice, Jr., president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Organized Telephone Reserve

In his acceptance speech Colonel Carty told of the organization of the Telephone Reserve Corps, which is now with General Pershing and is considered one of the most vital parts of the signal corps system. Twelve battalions of men were in training while pursuing their telephone work, said Colonel Carty, and when war was declared they were immediately called into service.

"General Squier saw that the signal corps, as constituted in 1916, was far too small and not adequate," said Colonel Carty. "He came to me, and we went to President Bethell. The Telephone Reserve Corps resulted from this."

Colonel Carty described the work of the reserve with the navy in May, 1916,

Hotel Cashier Kills Self and Wife by Gas

Couple Discovered Asphyxiated After Shortage of $750 Is Found

Fearing arrest because a shortage of $750 had been found in his accounts as cashier of the Great Northern Hotel, in West Fifty-seventh Street, Frank Soukup, thirty-two, ended his life and that of his wife, Winifred, twenty, by asphyxiation yesterday in their apartment, 2444 Washington Avenue.

Lying on a mattress in the kitchen, with five jets in the gas range turned on full force and the windows closed, the couple were found last night by Patrolman James and Patrick McNally, an employee of the gas company. Tenants, who had smelled gas, had notified the police.

According to the management of the hotel, Soukup's accounts were found to be short on Wednesday. When told about it, it is said he admitted the shortage, but could not explain it. A further investigation Thursday showed a shortage of $750. According to the management of the hotel it will not total more than $1,000.

The police reported that the bonding company had stated Soukup was short $10,000. This was denied at the hotel.

Soukup was married on April 1. His sister said he was a Miss Goodenough. She did not know where the young bride's parents resided.

Arrest Captain for Red Cross Thefts

Frank L. De Boyelles, of Steamboat Ossining, Said to Have Confessed

Wholesale thefts of Red Cross and army supplies led to the arrest yesterday of Captain Frank L. De Boyelles, of the steamboat Ossining, by military intelligence agents, who believe that he is the leader of a ring engaged in stealing material from the Red Cross pier. According to United States Attorney Garrett Cotter, Captain De Boyelles has made a full confession, and thousands of dollars worth of supplies will be recovered.

After being arrested at his home, 130 Main Street, Ossining, De Boyelles was brought to New York and arraigned before United States Commissioner Samuel H. Hilditch, who held him on $2,500 bail for the Federal Grand Jury. The specific charge against him is the theft of $200 worth of supplies intended for civilian relief in Russia, which the detectives said was recovered when his home was searched.

For weeks agents of the military intelligence have been searching for a band of thieves operating at the Red Cross pier. More than $50,000 worth of supplies has been stolen, including sweaters, shoes, clothing, instruments and first aid kits intended for Pershing's men on the battlefield.

De Boyelles has been under suspicion, but it was not until yesterday, when he was arrested, that the military intelligence was convinced that he was the leader of the ring. He is fifty years old and lives with his wife and two children at the Ossining address.

Only Advised Son-in-Law

Representative Fairchild, in his letter to George F. Johnson, father-in-law of Senator Hill, referred to the Senator as a chronic office seeker and intimated that the Senator would not have traveled far politically if it had not been for the backing of Mr. Johnson. Mr. Johnson, in his reply, said that he was neither a politician nor a trader, but entirely independent in politics.

"I have never, directly or indirectly, given Senator Hill a dollar to advance his political interests," said the shoe manufacturer. "I have given him some advice, which I think he has followed so far, and I now publicly advise him, if he goes to Congress, to represent all the people, to remember that a majority of his constituents are without wealth or influence and require his special consideration, and also to remember that he is responsible for every hour of his time to the people from whom he draws pay."

The friends of ex-Senator Harvey D. Hinman, whose chairmanship of the organization of the House is threatened by the Hill men since the announcement of Attorney General Lewis as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, regret that ex-Senator Hinman did not decide to enter the primaries against Governor Whitman. They believe that he would have made a good showing. Mr. Hinman said today that the Republican situation was looking better every day.

Believes Whitman Will Win

"I am confident of winning in the primaries, no matter who is nominated against me," said Representative Fairchild's leave-taking was most ungracious. It showed a bad spirit.

He believed that Governor Whitman will win in the primaries. There may be some chills toward him on the part of farmers here and there, who on account of the times seem to think that the state might have helped them

Moving Boxcar Scene Of Desperate Battle

Three Employees of B. & O. Accused of Freight Thefts Are Caught

Following a battle in a moving freight car, in which one man was beaten into submission and two others caught after they had risked death in a leap to the ground, three employees of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad on Staten Island were arrested yesterday, charged with stealing goods from the Port Richmond station.

The men are: John McGinn, twenty-nine, Trenton Avenue, East River; Barton, twenty-seven, 99 Union Avenue; and Louis Latouret, twenty-two, 1610 Castleman Avenue, all of Port Richmond. Arraigned before United States Commissioner McGoldrick, Barton and Latouret were held on $1,000 bail for the grand jury. McGinn demanded an examination and was held on similar bail. Two men were alleged to have been in the car with the three men, but they were not caught.

According to the police, the five men, with several of his men, waiting on a train at the Port Richmond station, leaped into the open car as the train passed beneath them. The men refused to surrender, and the fight followed.

According to the road's police, thousands of dollars worth of goods have been stolen when shipments have been broken open. It has not been established that the men under arrest were connected with these thefts.

Dr. B. T. Terry Resigns After Row With Coler

Brooklyn Pathologist Says the New Administration Hampered His Work

Dr. Benjamin T. Terry, director of the Brooklyn Laboratories of Pathology since March 1, 1913, has resigned because of differences with Commissioner Coler of the Charities Department. Dr. Terry yesterday declared that his work had been hampered and that he had not been given "a fair deal."

"When the new city administration came in things became so unpleasant that I felt I could no longer remain in the city service and retain my self-respect," said Dr. Terry. "So I got out."

Commissioner Coler explained that Dr. Terry was one of the men from the Rockefeller Institute, who evidently did not like the way we proposed to do things." The Commissioner said that under the Mitchell administration the laboratory was taken away from the Kings County Hospital and made a separate department. He declared that he was simply putting them back in the hospital where they belonged. He said that he was trying to reduce the number of his pathologists. He said that he was looking for more pathologists, but that it was difficult to get them now at any price on account of the war.

Before entering the city service Dr. Terry was for seven years connected with the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research. He is now serving as an instructor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Arrest of Socialists Assailed in Reichstag

AMSTERDAM, May 17.—The German newspapers report strong Socialist speeches in the Reichstag recently, denouncing the arrests and imprisonment of Independent Socialists, and leading to stormy scenes.

According to the Socialist newspaper "Vorwaerts," Herr Hertefeld, a Socialist Deputy, denounced the imprisonment of a number of young men at Dresden on treason charges. He called the arrest of fellow members of his party and stormy interruptions from other sections of the house, he said.

"By this sort of class justice the Supreme Court is doing everything it can to strengthen the power of the military dictatorship," he said.

Angry attacks also took place between Socialist members and the vice-president of the chamber, "Vorwaerts" reports several members of the Independent Socialist party as having been arrested within the last few weeks at Cologne. The men sentenced at Dresden, with whose case Herr Hertefeld dealt, were apparently Independent Socialists. He said that the "Volkszeitung" states that twelve Independent Socialists have been sentenced by a Dresden court for high treason, their terms ranging from two to eight years in prison. They were charged with circulating pamphlets, revolutionary in character.

Democratic Leader In Binghamton to Support Whitman

George F. Johnson, Friend of Wilson, Declares He's for Governor

By Charles T. White
(Special Dispatch to The Tribune)

BINGHAMTON, May 17.—George F. Johnson, shoe manufacturer, of Endicott, Johnson City, Binghamton and New York, an enrolled Democrat and friend of President Wilson, announced in Binghamton this week that he would support Governor Whitman against any Democrat that may be named. This fact, coupled with the withdrawal of Representative George W. Fairchild, of Oneonta, from the primary race against Senator William H. Hill, of Binghamton, has, according to local political opinion, secured the nomination of Senator Hill's following in the ascendancy in Broome County. It looks now as if Senator Hill would have an easy time carrying the primaries in Broome, Otsego, Madison and Chenango counties, comprising the Congress district.

The withdrawal of Representative Fairchild was accompanied by bitterness between Mr. Fairchild and Mr. Johnson. It will require a good deal of "smoothing out" to get the Fairchild men and disgruntled Republican farmers back into line for the State and Congressional ticket, if the ticket contains the names of Whitman and Hill. Both the Governor and Senator Hill understand the situation, and have gone to work at the task of allaying the soreness.

Only Advised Son-in-Law

Representative Fairchild, in his letter to George F. Johnson, father-in-law of Senator Hill, referred to the Senator as a chronic office seeker and intimated that the Senator would not have traveled far politically if it had not been for the backing of Mr. Johnson. Ex-Inspector Titus Dies of Pneumonia

Retired Policeman Was Member of Force More Than Twenty-five Years

Former Police Inspector George F. Titus, who retired from the force in 1914, died of pneumonia early yesterday morning at his home, 691 West 118th Street. He was sixty years old and until a week ago in excellent health and active in the affairs of the detective agency he and former Police Captain Kelleher conducted at 115 Broadway.

Inspector Titus was a member of the force for more than a quarter of a century. Prior to joining it, he was a practicing lawyer. Detective work interested him, and after becoming a member of the force, he soon won his way into the detective bureau. From that time his advancement was rapid, except during a time Colonel Roosevelt was in the department.

Both Inspector Titus and George McCluskey, who were two of the best known detectives in the city at that time, incurred the displeasure of Commissioner Roosevelt and were sent outlying precincts. They remained there until he left the department, when they too immediately returned to headquarters.

The department record of Inspector Titus was by no means a drab one. Included in it was honorable mention for clever detective work in the "truck and car" case, a special mention for heroism at the Crosby Street fire in 1903. A charge of dereliction of duty was brought against him at one time, but he was cleared of it at the trial.

Inspector Titus received a pension of $1,750 a year on retirement. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Agnes Titus.

Mrs. Fahnestock Wins Retrial of Libel Suit

Case Against Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" Will Be Heard Again

Mrs. Annie Prall Fahnestock, of Washington, will have another opportunity to prove her allegation that Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett Townsend, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," libeled her in a letter. The Appellate Division yesterday reversed the action of the Supreme Court in dismissing the $50,000 suit which Mrs. Fahnestock brought.

Mrs. Fahnestock married Archie Fahnestock, whose mother is a sister of Mrs. Townsend, and the authors wrote a letter in which she discussed this marriage and many other things concerning Mrs. Townsend, which the Appellate Division said was "most virulent in character, filled with aspersions upon the plaintiff's character and evincing a malicious purpose of humiliating and insulting the plaintiff and holding her up to the contempt and ridicule of those who might have an opportunity of reading it."

The highest court said that "the whole tone of the letter is unmistakable, its purport apparent and the malice which pervades it is manifested in every paragraph." The court held that Mrs. Townsend could not claim privilege in her defense, as she did not write the alleged libelous letter in reply to one directed to her.

Speech Discredits Sale of Loan Bonds

Chambers Says He Cannot Believe Banks Countenance Their Disposal

ATLANTIC CITY, May 17.—William Chambers, who presided today at the opening session of the convention of the Hotel Bankers' Association in the Hotel Chelsea, said that he could not credit reports that banks were responsible for recent sales of Liberty bonds of the third issue below par.

"If Liberty bonds were subscribed for as a matter of patriotic enthusiasm," he said, "they ought to be held as a matter of self-interest. I have no doubt that the bankers may be depended upon to spread this gospel among investors of the government's Liberty issue. Already bonds of the third issue are selling below par in Wall Street, and it has been responsibly reported in newspapers that some of these sales were authorized by the Federal Reserve Board. I believe that the banks are responsible."

"The financial question is one of paramount importance in modern warfare. Shall we continue to raise money by bonds in a spirit of patriotism in the past, or must there be an increase in taxation?"
